

Dr. Steve Maguire, Ph.D., MBA

Director of the Marcel Desautels Institute for Integrated Management at McGill University

Dr. Steve Maguire is an internationally recognized academic in the field of organization studies, where he has made significant contributions in the areas of institutional entrepreneurship and organizational discourse. Empirically, his primary research focus is on institutional and technological change driven by the emergence of new risks to human health and the environment. He is known as an expert on the precautionary principle and implementing strategies that advance the Institute's mandate, as well as overseeing the Institute's operations. Dr. Maguire holds the Desautels Chair in Integrated Management. He is an Associate Professor of Strategy and Organization in McGill's Desautels Faculty of Management and is also an associate member of McGill School of Environment. Dr. Maguire was awarded a 2012 Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal for his dedication to his peers, his community and to Canada.